A Message from the Naval Safety Center

The “critical days” pose greater risks for several reasons. It’s when service members go on family vacations and often travel longer periods than they should without rest or a break. It’s when the weather is ideal for outdoor and water activities. And it’s also a time for cookouts and picnics, which often include alcohol consumption.

This summer, be there for each other and remind everyone to be alert, aware, and to manage risk all day, every day.

Always remember to work, play, live safe

Do Your Part to Prevent Mishaps and Deaths

What can YOU do to make a difference?

Have you ever driven without a seat belt?

Do you warm up before jogging or running?

Have you ever
taken a drunk
friend's keys?

Are you trained or experienced for your activities?

Do you take the time to plan your trip?

Do you consider
the risk in your activities?

Do you wear proper PPE while riding a motorcycle?

Do you have any speeding tickets?

Have you ever driven
when you're fatigued?

Do you drive the speed limit?

Do you designate a sober driver?

Most Importantly, Be There For Each Other

- Call someone if you have been drinking and need a ride home.
- Decide in advance that no one will drive a car after drinking.
- Make sure no one rides with someone who has been drinking.

- Always wear the proper PPE to protect yourself and your friends.
- Take the time to learn and train.
- Know the impact of high-risk behavior on your career and family.

- Talk to your friends who might be putting themselves in danger.
- Get enough rest before going on a long trip.
- Have a good time without putting yourself or your friends at risk.
